Program Highlights

“As we enter this Year of the Tiger, CGCC will continue to play a critical role in promoting economic collaboration, which we believe will lead to a better investment environment, creating more jobs, contributing to supporting diversity and inclusion, as well as a more sustainable environment for our planet.”

Chen XU

*Chairman of CGCC
President and CEO of Bank of China USA*

“We will be defined by not what we went through, but how we come through the other side. And that’s why working closely with this incredible organization, CGCC, and Chairman Xu and so many others who have lent your talents and resources to build this city into the magnificent place that it is, I want you to know that your investments, your faith, and belief in a better future are well placed.”

Kathy Hochul

Governor of New York

A photograph of Mayor Eric Adams speaking at a podium. He is a Black man with a shaved head, wearing a dark suit and a light-colored shirt. He is standing in profile, facing right, with his hands clasped in front of him. The podium is a clear acrylic stand with a microphone. The background is a large, ornate hall with a high, arched ceiling. The walls and ceiling are illuminated with blue light. Large, white, illuminated letters spelling "CGCC" are visible on the left and right sides of the background. The overall atmosphere is formal and professional.

CGCC

CGCC

“CGCC went through a horrific period when the mere factor of COVID was shamefully attached to the Chinese people. We are so much better as a city, our potent secret weapon against COVID might be vaccines, but our weapon against hate is our diversity.”

Eric Adams

Mayor of New York City

“Two-way trade and investment between the U.S. and China are strategically important, and in the interest of both our countries, they create dependencies which in turn add ballast and act as a stabilizing force between our countries.”

Evan G. Greenberg

Chairman and CEO of Chubb

“As Ray [Dalio] once said, there are things that make Americans American, and there are things that make Chinese Chinese, but we can approach a win-win relationship by seeing each other through each other’s eyes and not expecting others to be like us in all respects. This is truly a sober view and one of the fundamental principles for growing the U.S.-China relationship.”

Ambassador Ping HUANG

Consul General of the People’s Republic of China in New York

“The business community should continue to serve as a bridge and a bond between our two countries, to cultivate the objective and rational view of both sides and tell the story of cooperation.”

Ambassador Gang QIN

Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary of the People's Republic of China to the United States of America

“As co-chair of the Delaware Prosperity Partnership board of directors, I’m proud of our statewide efforts to create sustainable growth, in industries like fintech, advanced manufacturing, food production, healthcare, and science and technology.”

John Carney

Governor of Delaware and Co-chair of the Delaware Prosperity Partnership

“At the local level, we have partnerships that are really really special. We are thankful for the hundreds of millions of dollars that the Chinese private entities have invested in Jersey City.”

Steven Fulop

Mayor of Jersey City

The Principle Award

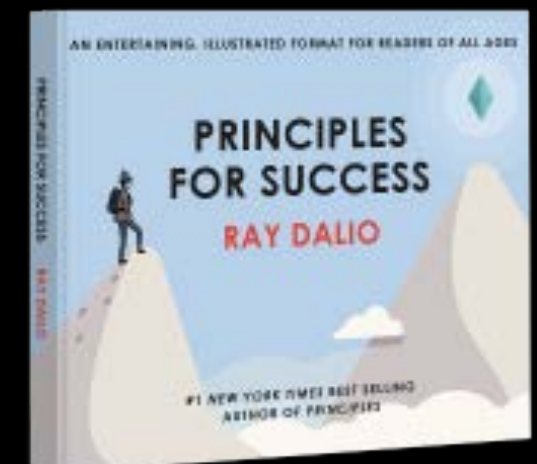

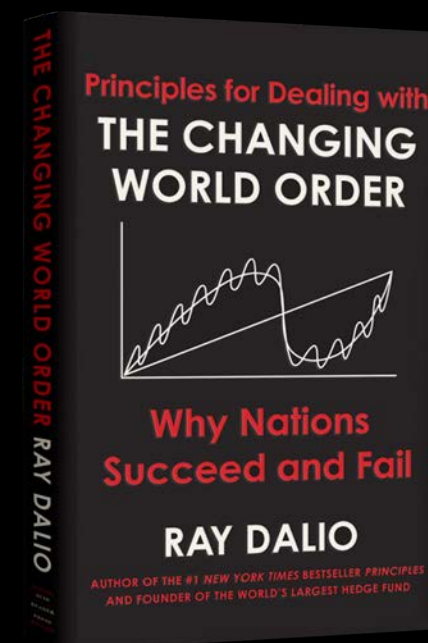

Ray Dalio

Founder, Co-Chairman and Co-Chief Investment Officer of Bridgewater Associates

“I hope that you will join me in speaking up to help mutual understanding and improve relationships between our two countries because we are all here for that purpose and we all understand, that can help us to have a better future.”

“Cultural exchange, communication, and collaboration are the vaccines that prevent the scourge of suspicion, hostility, and conflicts. We are the antibodies, fighting for a trusting and compassionate world, at a time when calls for isolation seemed epidemic.”

Steven Tan XU

Vice-Chair of CGCC, President of China Telecom Americas

“history has taught us that competition has been the driving force of modern economic and social development, in that spirit, business people and public officials should embrace that spirit as we seek to solve the economic, social, and environmental challenges of today. We need to be strong and have courage to take bold steps in order to achieve a greater good.”
